

The Last 24

Everything that happened in AI

on Friday, 17 July 2026

Flip through to read more →

● ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE

Thinking Machines Lab Releases Its First AI Model

Thinking Machines Lab, a new artificial intelligence research outfit, has publicly released its first model, marking its formal

● ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE

What can I help with?

Apple Gets Green Light for iPhone AI in China — With Alibaba and Baidu on Board

Apple has received regulatory approval to roll out its iPhone AI features in China, partnering with domestic tech giants

● ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE

Apple Stock Jumps Over 3% on Report of iPhone Maker Eyeing AI Chip Acquisitions

Apple's stock surged over 3% after reports emerged that the company is exploring acquisitions in the AI chip space.

● ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE

DeepSeek Founder Liang Wenfeng Surpasses Dario Amodei and Greg Brockman as World's Richest AI Founder

Liang Wenfeng, the founder of Chinese AI company DeepSeek, has overtaken Anthropic CEO Dario Amodei and

● ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE

Google Sued Over Using Copyrighted Books to Train Gemini AI

Google is facing a lawsuit alleging that it used copyrighted books without authorisation to train its Gemini AI model.

The Last 24

The full brief, every day:

thelast24.in

Everything that mattered in India, in five minutes.

